Toyota Gibraltar Stockholdings (TGS) and Clements Worldwide to Deliver Better Fleet Solutions to Humanitarian Aid Organizations

TGS and Clements Worldwide Have Partnered to Provide Humanitarian Aid Organizations with Financial Protection from Operating Risks in Developing Countries

November 1, 2015 (Washington, DC) – TGS and Clements Worldwide offer an end-to-end fleet protection program to humanitarian aid organizations, including anti-theft and safety features, paired with optional driver training, from TGS and customized fleet insurance from Clements. The customized insurance is designed specifically for the challenging circumstances faced by aid workers from extreme weather, to war and terrorism, and nascent infrastructure, such as roads and repair facilities.

“The need for humanitarian aid has never been greater – and this aid is often delivered through high-performance vehicles that can adjust to any terrain and withstand extreme circumstances” stated Frederic Burgod, Sales Director of Toyota Gibraltar Services. “TGS was started in 1996 to address this need and, over the years, we have heard consistently from our customers a challenge in insuring these vehicles in the highest risk countries in the world.”

Clements has been providing bespoke fleet insurance solutions to large international non-governmental organizations and United Nations agencies for 20 years. With options for physical damage, excess liability, duty coverage, personal accident for employees and passengers, and claims management for self-ensured clients Clements offers the best-in-market solution for fleet insurance coverage. Additionally, Clements offers political violence coverage in over 170 countries to cover damage caused by strikes, riots, malicious damage, sabotage, war, terrorism, or civil unrest – a danger which is omnipresent in today’s geo-political climate.

“We are thrilled to have this relationship with TGS through which we can jointly partner with humanitarian organizations to help them manage their fleets – a mission critical component of their operations,” said Chris Beck, President of Clements Worldwide. “Our goal is to work with these life-saving organizations to efficiently manage this expense line while putting the safety of staff and beneficiaries first. Aid organizations are encouraged to reach out to us for a free consultation where we can provide guidance on economic cost management.”

Clements and TGS first began testing the partnership in 2013 and already have over 60 shared customers. The combination of TGS's enduring commitment to building high-performance vehicles to address aid organization's needs across climates and challenging situations with Clements' global insurance expertise ensures peace of mind worldwide for TGS customers.
